

Saakalya Collection partners the Holistic Wellness Network

Singapore, 27 January 2015 - The Holistic Wellness Network is a global conglomerate of likeminded Italian and Singaporean companies who share a passion for creating rejuvenating wellness environments. By combining a plethora of skills across architectural, interior design and spa technology fields, the Holistic Wellness Network has been designed to provide a menu of services, technologies and products aimed at increasingly sophisticated and varied customers.

The wellness industry is changing. The expectations of potential customers have begun to shift towards a more rounded approach. Individual treatments may no longer be enough to satisfy the modern consumer, instead a cleansing ambience is necessary to offer true relaxation. With this evolution lie opportunities for business to meet customer demands in an innovative and futurproof way.

With a key understanding of the hospitality industry, - Alexandra Schmutterer, Managing Director of Singapore based Saakalya Pte Ltd, is the official sales representative of the Holistic Wellness Network in Asia. Comprising four companies, each with a unique and complimentary collection of products, the network works in harmony to assess and provide highly competitive and entirely customisable offerings to hotels, spas, gyms, resorts and even private purposes. The complete package tackles the differing concepts of wellness through a wide variety of mediums, some technologically advanced, others drawing on the time-honoured traditions of authentic spa environments. Each company is committed to creating an atmosphere of utmost rejuvenation.

Flyproject

An Italian architectural firm which dedicates itself to contemporary, flowing designs. Concentrating on wellness concepts, Flyproject lends its skills to the design of swimming pools, fitness clubs, public and private spas.

Soundlight

Soundlight uses a deep understanding of music and light therapy to incorporate a cleansing and uplifting feel to an interior. This latest technology is implemented to coordinate colour and sound in both aquatic and dry environments, from wellness and spas to architecture, home automation and entertainment.

Innersee

Innersee recently unveiled its first product – Seento, an innovative multi-sensory spa bed. By combining both visual and audio stimulation together with specially generated aromas, Seento creates a complete feeling of estrangement and peace. Used in conjunction with massage techniques, customers are transported into a serene, calming environment.

Saakalya Collection

The Saakalya Collection sources high quality, Southeast Asian décor, soft furnishings and accessories to bring the beauty and serenity of this region to interiors around the world.

The collection is contemporary and simple by design.

The Saakalya Collection offers a holistic décor solution to an opening or refurbishment by creating an ambience of wellbeing. On request we are able to source or create products in line with a company's signature brand or unique concept.

By combining authentic Asian ambience with the latest European design, technology and quality, the Holistic Wellness Network is able to offer a truly innovative redevelopment solution for a constantly evolving industry. Indeed, in covering a wide range of interior and wellness sectors, the group epitomises its holistic title. Companies that are looking to take the next step and connect with an expanding audience of health and wellbeing enthusiasts will find themselves equipped with the tools and knowledge necessary to quickly establish a name within the wellness industry.

About Saakalya

In the ancient Indian language of Sanskrit, the word for entireness and completeness is Saakalya. Saakalya Pte Ltd, which launched in 2014 aims to bring the beauty and holistic wellness values of Southeast Asia to people around the world.

The Saakalya Collection, a branch of Saakalya's tri-concept has been developed to provide a complete décor solution to an opening or refurbishment by creating a true ambience of wellbeing.

Saakalya Travel is also an arm of Saakalya and offers holistic weekend breaks to the countries from which the Saakalya Collection has been sourced. Saakalya Travel gives guests access to a side that is typically only seen by local eyes, an enriching and wholesome experience.

Saakalya Yoga is the final part of Saakalya's concept. With over 20 years of experience between them, Saakalya Yoga's 3 instructors are available for group private and corporate session, either at home or in the studio.
